Safe Boating Tips Part 1

No matter how much experience you have, it's always a good idea for everyone to review boating safety rules before departures. Below you will find 10 basic boating safety tips to help you stay safe:

Be Weather-Wise

Always check local weather conditions before departure; TV and radio forecasts can be a good source of information. If you notice darkening clouds, volatile and rough changing winds or sudden drops in temperature, play it safe by getting off the water.

Follow a Pre-Departure Checklist

Proper boating safety includes being prepared for any possibility on the water. Following a pre-departure checklist is the best way to make sure no boating safety rules or precautions have been overlooked or forgotten.

Use Common Sense

One of the most important parts of boating safety is to use your common sense. This means operating at a safe speed at all times (especially in crowded areas), staying alert at all times and steering clear of large vessels and watercraft that can be restricted in their ability to stop or turn. Also, be respectful of buoys and other navigational aids, all of which have been placed there to ensure your own safety.

Designate an Assistant Skipper

Make sure more than one person on board is familiar with all aspects of your boat's handling, operations, and general boating safety. If the primary navigator is injured or incapacitated in any way, it's important to make sure someone else can follow the proper boating safety rules to get everyone else back to shore.

Make Proper Use of Lifejackets

Did you know that the majority of drowning victims are the result of boaters not wearing their lifejackets? Make sure that your family and friends aren't part of this statistic by assigning and fitting each member of your onboard team with a life jacket prior to departure. Wear it!

Safe Boating Tips Part 2

Develop a Float Plan

Whether you choose to inform a family member or staff at your local marina, always be sure to let someone else know your float plan.

A float plan can include the following information:

- name, address, and phone number of trip leader
- name and phone number of all passengers
- boat type and registration information
- trip itinerary
- types of communication and signal equipment onboard

Avoid Alcohol

Practice boating safety at all times by saving the alcohol for later. The probability of being involved in a boating accident doubles when alcohol is involved and studies have shown that the effects of alcohol are exacerbated by sun and wind.

Learn to Swim

If you're going to be in and around the water, proper boating safety includes knowing how to swim. Local organizations, such as the American Red Cross and others, offer training for all ages and abilities. Check to see what classes are offered in your area.

Take a Boating Course

Beginning boaters and experienced experts alike need to be familiar with the boating safety rules of operation. Boater education requirements vary by state; however, some require validated completion of at least one boating safety course. Regardless of your individual state's requirements, it's always important to be educated and prepared for every circumstance that might arise.

Consider a Free Vessel Safety Check

Take advantage of a free vessel safety check from the US Coast Guard. They offer complimentary boat examinations to verify the presence and condition of certain safety equipment required by state and federal regulations. Free of charge, they'll provide a specialist to check out your boat and make helpful boating safety tips and recommendations. They also offer virtual online safety checks as well.

Report

As April is starting off we are starting to see warmed temperatures and a glimpse into the start of a great fishing and boating season. The flowers are starting to bloom and fishermen have already been seen searching the Chesapeake. They have been fishing for freshwater fish such as the stocked trout. These anglers are on a lookout for the “spring spawning runs of yellow and white perch” (Maryland DNR).

However, before the perch move into the spawning areas, the yellow perch are in deeper waters waiting for water temperature to rise into the upper 40’s and low 50’s. As reported by the NOAA Nowcast, surface water temperatures are hovering around the upper 40’s and starting to rise into the low 50’s in most areas, so yellow perch should be on the verge of spawning. It has been reported that the majority of catches in the Chesapeake have been male yellow perch.

The most popular spots in the North East of the Chesapeake have been around Perryville in the lower Susquehanna and the upper region of the Chester river on the eastern side. Additionally, on the western side of the bay, the Grays Run area of the Bush River on Route 41 is also popular. Here, the yellow perch seem to be attracted to a large hole that is underneath of the bridge. The Maryland DNR writes that, “[I]ip-hooked minnows on a 1/8 ounce jig head or drop shot rig fished close to the bottom tends to be the most productive way to fish.”

So before you head out fishing, make sure you check out Maryland Department of Natural Resources click before you cast for the most recent updates. <https://news.maryland.gov/dnr/2019/03/13/maryland-fishing-report-march-13/>
